

Save the planet!

You have to believe that recycling is a must!!

Recycling is something that could possibly save the planet.

It's a shared opinion that if you don't recycle, the earth will be full of pollution and trash. It will not be a pretty sight. The human population will go down and down until there are no people left.

Pollution damages animal's habitat, which means animals will become extinct. For example, turtles, fish and any other sea creatures can get caught in fishing line, plastic bags and anything else that you don't recycle.

Re-using things will help save the environment and maybe even the planet. Larkin-Galvin (2005) states that recycling is a must. Saving the environment makes you feel great so why not give it a try?

Do you want a clean town? If you step out of your house and you see a bit of rubbish...don't hesitate, pick it up to save the planet.

Pollution might not mean anything to you now but in a couple of hundred years the planet will be covered in garbage and rubbish will also be floating around space.

Are you an animal lover? Then recycle for the animal's sake! Do you like feeling good? Then recycle! Recycling makes you feel good and it will help keep the planet clean and save the environment.

I have come to the end of trying to save the planet and I hope I have changed your mind! Just think about it. Next time you finish something...recycle it!!
